

SGS certifies Indesign, LLC for compliance with ISO 9001:2008

Indianapolis, IN, July 1, 2009: Indesign, LLC, an electronic product design engineering services company located in Indianapolis, recently received certification for compliance of its Quality Management System with the updated ISO 9001:2008 standard. Compliance was established through a successful certification audit carried out by SGS. Indesign has been certified to earlier versions of the ISO 9001 standard since 1999.

Indesign's Quality Management System was established to focus on client requirements for design documentation and product prototypes, as well as to support clients' internal quality management processes for product design and development. "Indesign is very pleased to obtain certification to the latest ISO 9001 standard", says Indesign CEO and President Jerry Gotway. "This ISO certification is a reflection of our company's strong commitment to quality, process improvement, and client satisfaction."
